

Assistant/Associate Professor of Civil Engineering - Asphalt Pavement.

The Department of Civil Engineering and Construction at Bradley University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in the Asphalt Pavement Design area at the Assistant/Associate Professor level starting in January or August of 2010.

Bradley University is a distinctive, medium-size, comprehensive private institution of higher learning. The University is located on an 85-acre campus in Peoria, the largest metropolitan area in central Illinois. With approximately 5,000 undergraduate and 800 graduate students, Bradley offers the opportunities and choices of a larger university (with over 130 programs in five colleges, plus a graduate school) and the quality, personal attention, and challenge of a small private college. Bradley is rich in tradition and full of promise to become one of the nation's best comprehensive universities. For additional information about the University visit www.bradley.edu.

Applicants should have a B.S. in Civil Engineering. The position requires an earned doctorate with specialization in Asphalt Pavement and knowledge of Superpave. Knowledge of Geotechnical Engineering and registration as a PE in any state are desirable. Duties include teaching graduate and undergraduate courses, supervising students, and attracting funded research. Salary and rank are commensurate with qualifications.

This position provides exceptional opportunities for individuals who wish to join a first-rate multi-disciplinary department with an active Center for Emerging Technologies in Infrastructure that has strong ties to major industrial partners and eminent internationally renowned universities. The department holds its own job fair, the Innovations Conference on Asphalt and Transportation, and a major study abroad program. In 2008 the department set a new record in freshman enrollment and another record in 2009 with 48.7% of the incoming class being presidential scholars.

The selected candidate will work with renowned faculty who have co-authored more than 20 textbooks. The selected candidate will also have unique opportunities to teach overseas through our study abroad programs in the UK, France, Denmark, Egypt, Jordan, and other destinations. The department currently has 15 full-time faculty positions, 10 part-time faculty, and approximately 275 students.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter addressing the qualifications for the position, a complete resume that includes a list of relevant graduate courses and contact information for at least three professional references, a statement of teaching and research interests, copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to:
