

The Day I Fell Out of Me

I spotted intently
an azure beetle
trotting along

in such a way
as an azure beetle
would trot.

Stroking its back
with my eyes,
I fell outside myself.

Leaning closer-in,
from my vestige,
finding myself
through strange feelers.

Humbled to be sensing
untroddenly.