

2009 Student Scholarship Exposition

Friday, April 17, 2009

Bradley Hall

The Bradley University Office of Teaching Excellence and Faculty Development (OTEFD) is sponsoring the Seventeenth Annual Student Scholarship Exposition on Friday, April 17, 2009 in Bradley Hall. The Exposition recognizes and promotes student scholarly work with peers and colleagues. This event celebrates collaboration among faculty and students within and across disciplines.

Bradley undergraduate and graduate students in all disciplines engaged in research, creative activities, or other forms of scholarship are eligible to participate. The students must be directly and substantively involved in the different aspects of the scholarly activity, particularly in the conception and execution. The activity must also have direct supervision or involvement from at least one faculty mentor. Projects still in progress are eligible. Projects with proprietary information presented in a generic form are acceptable. Students must be registered in the fall 2008 and/or spring 2009 semester to enter the Exposition.

The Exposition will be open to the Bradley Community and the general public. Area businesses and companies will be invited to attend and preview the talents and expertise of Bradley students and faculty.

All student participants will receive a medallion that can be worn at graduation.

REGISTRATION:

Interested students should register by completing the Intent to Participate form (available at <http://www.bradley.edu/otefd/expo/index09.html>). Completed forms must be submitted to Kim Willis, 429 Jobst Hall no later than March 13, 2009.

Additional information, including guidelines, due dates, and changes to the 2009 Student Scholarship Exposition can be obtained from <http://www.bradley.edu/otefd/expo/index09.html>.
