

Montana turning

young girl, blond and innocent sings of happiness and love she starts growing older becoming smart and mature people begin to find out her secret behind the hair she's just a girl without a mother she does fine but can her dad help her turn out fine with her best friend she'll find her way Lily, Chad, Rico, and Milo won't go astray when she heads off to college and she grows away from them she gets involved in the wrong things being with wrong people could start bad habits she's still blonde but not so innocent life goes on but her happiness is graying it's just a phase that's not really fading "I'm just growing up," she says but deep down I know she dreads losing her childhood so quickly could mean losing your mind and heart slowly.
